Sixteen Years' Experience in Spectacles, and a study of the business in a general way has enabled me to fit those whose sight was failing because of advancing age (Presbyopia) and those who were nearsighted (Myopia), but where astigmatism or any peculiarity of the sight existed I was obliged to refer the customer to a city oculist. Not satisfied with a business that I could not do properly, I determined to study Refraction. I secured the best works on that subject, "Hartridge on Refraction," by Gustavus Hartridge, F. R. C. S., a well recognized authority on Optics and Refraction, and these I studied well. I also attended lectures at the New York Optical School last fall, and bought the best quality testing case and outfit at $100, and feel justified in making the announcement that I am now ready to prescribe for and correct the vision of almost any and all conditions of the eyes where glasses are needed. The liberal patronage extended to me during the sixteen years I have been in business here encourages me to enter this new field in connection with my regular business, and believe my customers will be glad to know that they can get PROPERLY FITTED GLASSES without the trouble and expense of going to the city. No charges at present for examination of eyes.
Glasses ground to order in New York when special lenses are needed. Those coming from a distance would do well to notify me by card.

A ROUGH SEA VOYAGE
DR. TALMAGE SAYS CHRIST'S FOLLOWERS MUST EXPECT IT.

He Preaches a Sermon of Solace to People Who Are in Trouble—The Storm and the Calm on the Sea of Gennesaret—The Harbor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—This sermon by Rev. Dr. Talmage will be of great solace to people who are finding their life a rough voyage. Text, Mark iv, 36:
"And there were also with him other little ships, and there arose a great storm of wind. And the wind ceased and there was a great calm."

Thierias, Galilee, Gennesaret—three names for the same lake. No other group of so beautiful a setting. It lay in a second of great luxuriance—the surrounding hills high, terraced, sloping, groved, so many hanging gardens of beauty; the waters tumbling down between rocks of gray and red limestone, flashing from the hills and bounding into the sea. On the shore were castles, armed towers, Roman camps, everything attractive and beautiful, all styles of vegetation in shorter space than in almost any other place in all the world, from the palm tree of the forest to the trees of a rigorous climate.

Smooth Sailing.
It seemed as if the Lord had latched one wave of beauty on all the scene, and it hung and swung from rock and hill and oleander. Roman gentlemen in pleasure boats sailing the lake and countrymen in fish smacks, coming down to drop their nets, pass each other with nod and shout and laughter and singing idly at the oars. Oh, what a wonderful, what a beautiful lake!

It seems as if we shall have a quiet night. Not a leaf winked in the air, not a ripple disturbed the face of Gennesaret, but there seems to be a little excitement up the beach, and we listen to see what it is, and we find it an embarkation.

From the western shore a flotilla pushing out, not a squadron or a fleet of warships, but a flotilla of pleasure boats, ready to destroy everything that is not a flotilla, bearing a host of life and light and peace. Christ is in the front of the boat. His disciples are in a smaller boat. Jesus, with a crowd speaking to large multitudes, is in the speaking, to the rocking of the waves, if there was any motion at all, the ship was easily righted; if the wind passed from one side, from the starboard to the larboard or from the larboard to the starboard, the boat would rock, and by the gentleness of the motion putting the master asleep. And the fisherman's boat, with its crew of Christ, prostrate and his head touching the pillow that is sound asleep. The breezes of the lake run their fingers through the locks of the worn sleeper, and the boat rises and falls like a sleeping child on the bosom of a sleeping mother.

A Change of Weather.
Calm night, starry night, beautiful night. Run up all the sails, ply all the oars, and let the large boat and the small boat glide over gentle Gennesaret.
But the sailors say there is going to be a change of weather. And even the passengers can hear the moaning of the storm as it comes on with long stride, with all the terrors of hurricane and darkness. The large boat trembles like a door at lay trembling under the chance of the bounds; great patches of foam are flung into the air; the sails of the vessels loosen, and the sharp winds crack like pistols; the smaller boats like perils poise on the cliff of the waves and then plunge. Overboard go decked disciples and masters, and the part of the boat and lay hold of the back part of the boat and say unto him, "Master, carest thou not that we perish?" That great personage lifts his head from the pillow of the fisherman's boat, walks to the front of the vessel and looks out into the storm. All around him are the smaller boats, driven in through the waves, and the cry of drowning men.
By the flash of the lightning I see the calm brow of Christ as the spray drips from his beard. He has one word for the sky and another word for the waves. Looking upward, he cries, "Peace!" Looking downward, he says, "Be still!"

The waves fall flat on their faces, the foam melts, the extinguished stars re-light their torches, the tempest falls dead, and Christ stands with his foot on the neck of the storm. And while the sailors are talking out the boats and while they are trying to untangle the cordage, the disciples stand in amazement, now looking into the calm sea, then into the calm sky, then into the calm of the Saviour's countenance, and they cry out, "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him?"

The subject in the first place impresses me with the fact that it is very important to have Christ in the ship, for all these boats would have gone to the bottom of Gennesaret if Christ had not been present. Oh, what a lesson for you and for me to learn! Whatever voyage we undertake, into whatever enterprise we start, let us always have Christ in the ship. Many of you in these days of revived commerce are starting out in new financial enterprises. I bid you good cheer. Do all you can do. Do it on as high a plane as possible. You have no right to be a stoker in the ship if you can be an admiral of the navy.
You have no right to be a colonel of a regiment if you can command a brigade, you have no right to be an engineer of a boat on river tanks or near the coast if you can take the ocean steamer from New York to Liverpool. All you can do with utmost tension of body, mind and soul, you are bound to do; but, oh, have Christ in every enterprise, Christ in every voyage, Christ in every ship!

There are men who ask God to help them at the start of great enterprises.
He has been with them in the past. No trouble can overthrow them. The storm might come down from the top of Mount Hermion and lash Gennesaret into foam and cry agony, but it could not hurt them. But there is another man who starts out in worldly enterprise, and he depends upon the uncertainties of this life. He has no God to help him. After while the storm comes and tosses off the masts of the ship. He puts out his lifeboat. The sheriff and the auctioneer try to help him off. They can't help him off. He must go down—no Christ in the ship. Here are young men just starting out in life. Your life will be made up of sunshine and shadow. There may be in it arctic blasts or tropical torridities. I know not what is before you, but I know if you have Christ with you all shall be well.

You may seem to get along without the religion of Christ while everything goes smoothly, but after awhile, when sorrow hovers about the soul, when the waves of trial dash clear over the hurricane deck and the bowsprit is shivered and the masts are swept into the sea and the gangway is crowded with practical disasters—oh, what would you then do without Christ in the ship? Young men, take God for your portion, God for your guide, God for your help, then all is well—all is well for time, all shall be well forever.
Blessed is that man who puts in the Lord his trust. He shall never be confounded.

There Must Be Rough Weather.
But my subject also impresses me with the fact that when people start to follow Christ they must not expect smooth sailing. These disciples got into the small boats, and I have no doubt they said: "What a beautiful day this is! What a smooth sea! What a bright sky this is! How delightful is sailing in this boat! And as for the waves under the keel of the boat, why, they only make the motion of our little boat more delightful. But when the winds come, then they found that following Christ was not smooth sailing. So you have found it; so I have found it. Did you ever notice the end of the life of the apostles of Jesus Christ? You would say that if ever men ought to have had a smooth life, a smooth departure, then those men, the disciples of Jesus Christ, ought to have had such a departure and such a life.

St. James lost his head. St. Philip was hung to death on a pillar. St. Matthew had his head dashed out with a halberd. St. Mark was dragged to death through the streets. St. James the Less was beaten to death with a fuller's club. St. Thomas was struck through with a spear. They did not find following Christ smooth sailing. They were crucified and men saw a type of their deaths as the came kept falling and falling until the knob of the cane struck Mr.
Livingston's hand, and he clasped it sternly and said, "But the grace of God can stop you, as I stopped that cane," and
house at the fact of pardon and peace and salvation.

Well, said the people
after the service, "I guess you had better send Livingston home. He is making the revival worse." Oh, for the gales from heaven, and Christ on board the ship! The danger of the church of

and salvation.
